Anthropology is the study of people and their culture in both the past and present. My focus is environmental anthropology, which is the study of human relations with the natural environment.

Dr. Susan Charnley
Research Social Scientist
Ph.D., Stanford University
USDA Forest Service scientist

http://www.naturalinquirer.org