A microbiologist studies microscopic organisms to understand how these organisms live and how they interact with the environment. Microscopic organisms are so small that microbiologists must use microscopes to see them.

Dr. Franz Josef St. John
Microbiologist
Ph.D., University of Florida
USDA Forest Service scientist

http://www.naturalinquirer.org