

Name _____

Date _____

Thinking about Science and the Environment with the Natural Inquirer

Please fill out this chart as you read each article. If you need additional room, please use notebook paper.

Name of Article	Thinking About Science Concept	Thinking About Environment Concept	Question studied (Hint: Look in the Introduction section)	How is the Question Studied Related to the Science Concept and the Environment Concept?
Ex. Balancing Act	Using numbers to understand a problem	The Carbon Cycle	Which trees species grows the longest before CO ² emissions from machines are greater than the tree can absorb	Using number allows the scientists to develop an answer to their question and knowing about the carbon cycle allows scientists to understand that the carbon that is absorbed by the trees and emitted from engines are part of a larger process called the carbon cycle