

Some fire scientists study how good fires are used to protect homes and other buildings from wildfires.