

Some wildlife biologists study the ways that good fires provide healthier homes for deer and other forest animals.